Overview of Compass Workforce Development Services

Compass Workforce Development program employs several full time vocational rehabilitation counselors and specialists as well as intermittent job coaches. We serve both youth and adults with disabilities as well as those with special needs by preparing them for employment, providing them with access to job openings, and providing them support after they obtain employment. We also support individuals who want to enter post-secondary training programs.

Intermittent Job Coach Responsibilities

Compass employs job coaches for the summer and throughout the year to provide on-site job training to youth and adults placed at work sites throughout the community. All job coaches are provided training prior to the start of services. Job coaches also provide ongoing support during the work experience by Workforce Development supervisors.

General Duties:

- Assessing behavioral and soft skill strengths and deficits, developing benchmarks for improvement, and implementing behavioral goals as part of the individualized employment plan.
